- 8. Detail Description of the event:

From our recent field visit to Dora Beel, students [B.Sc. 1st Sem (Honours)] were an exceptionally enlightening experience, seamlessly blending theoretical knowledge with practical exposure. Dora Beel, renowned for its rich biodiversity and ecological significance, provided a fascinating glimpse into the intricate workings of wetland ecosystems. Students were captivated by the diverse flora and fauna, observing firsthand the dynamic interactions and hydrological characteristics that sustain this vibrant habitat. This immersive experience greatly enhanced their understanding of environmental conservation. Following the visit, students diligently prepared detailed field reports, meticulously documenting their observations and findings to fulfill their practical examination requirements. This visit was a significant educational endeavor, enriching the students' academic journey and equipping them with invaluable insights and skills for future ecological and environmental pursuits.
